

ABSTRACT

A fault current limiter for limiting current faults in an electrical network comprising: a series of phase coils located adjacent a superconductive coil for fault current limiting phase faults within the network; a series of neutral coils located 5 adjacent the superconductive coil for fault current limiting neutral earthing faults in the electrical network.